Granite Creek Capital Partners invested $15 million in Morrow Sodali, which provides strategic advisory and other services to corporate clients, the Chicago firm said Wednesday.

The firm's investment is for a minority stake in the New York-based company, alongside family offices Holding Pallavicini and Fidia Holding, which invested earlier.

Morrow Sodali, which also has a major office in London, offers corporate boards and executives advice and services regarding strategy, investor communications, shareholder activism, mergers and acquisitions, and other topics, according to its website.

Granite Creek typically invests $10 million to $20 million per deal in companies in the manufacturing, health-care and agribusiness sectors. In May, the firm closed its second fund, Granite Creek FlexCap II LP, with $200 million, a follow-up to its $85 million first fund, which closed in 2006.

In June, Granite Creek announced an investment in Royal Biologics LLC, a Jersey City, N.J., maker of biologics and medical devices.
